Frohsinn by atelier zürich

Frohsinn is German for cheerfulness and that's what atelier zürich's new label promises to deliver with a collection of handcrafted leather accessories. The Frohsinn range of products includes trays, paper bins and desk mats that impress with their simple charm and are available in six different colours. The products are produced in India according to Swiss quality and sustainability standards.

io selection

io selection is a new label by Swiss cabinetmaker oesch, adding another facet to oesch's expertise: here, the focus is on 'made in Switzerland' and on sustainability of materials. The first range of furniture, PAVO, comes from the desoko design collective and includes sideboards, dining tables and occasional tables.

mobilierwerkstatt

In his Basle-based workshop, Christian Tanner produces purist solid wood furniture and home accessories from up to 7,000 year-old bog oak. The wood gets its particular shades from the length of time it has stayed in the bog, with hues ranging from light grey and olive to deep black, thus lending the furniture from mobiliarwerkstatt its very special character.

Piuric

Good design is strikingly unobtrusive – that's Piuric's credo. The label is synonymous with furniture design and interior decoration marked by pure, clear and timeless forms. Produced in Zurich in limited numbers or as one-off or bespoke pieces, the design of Piuric's sofas, chairs, cabinets and beds is focused on reduction on the essentials without compromising functionality.

Stahlblau

The Bern-based furniture and object design retailer offers products made from high-end materials, with steel, wood, wool, glass and ceramics representing the core materials. Stahlblau collaborates with selected partners like B&T, Manufakt or Lee Broom and also provides its expertise in all aspects relating to bespoke furniture and interior concepts.

Studio Rotterdam

Recently founded Studio Rotterdam will be presenting its designs to the public for the first time, showcasing Frederick and George, two occasional tables made from spruce. Each table consists of five mitre-cut segments that are connected on one side by a flexible 'skin'. The structure can be carried around; as soon as it's put down, the segments will fall into place, stabilised by the structure's internal forces.

Unrefined

Unrefined's designs are of a timeless and minimalist quality. Founded in 2015 by brothers Bartek and Bartosz Puroł, the label specialises in designs made from concrete, mouth-blown glass and steel. Ranging from occasional tables and luminaires to tableware, the products' purity and aesthetics are of a timeless expression that outlasts the whims of fashion.
